To deemphasize program

Board seeks understanding with county athletic coaches

The athletic program at Hancock North Central School came under fire on Friday as school trustees faced the task of recommending certified personnel back for the coming year.

The controversy has surfaced several times during the past months with some board members critical of the apparent over-emphasis being placed on athletics over academics.

"Before we hire any coaches back we will have to have an understanding. We have seen too many kids dumped on at North Central."

are....

All these were statements of board member Woodrow Ladner who said that due to the involvement of one of his own boys he had stayed out of any conflict on the subject up until now but that it was high time the board became involved in restoring an even balance at the school.

"Let us hire these people back as teachers then, after holding a conference with each one of them, give them their coaching assignments back if they understand the position of the athletic program in relation to the school's entire curriculum."

School-board proxy Monvel Cuevas had reservations on the withholding of hires saying that if the personnel concerned had been recommended by the principal and approved by the superintendent, then how could the board refuse to follow through? Ladner responded promptly by saying that a lot of the students had been misled by one of the coaches, and another coach operates a show case.

"We cannot just go on doing nothing when we are aware of these things," Ladner said.

Cuevas said he regarded the school's problems as more the result of the frequent changing of principals than anything else.

"Most of our trouble stems from the fact that we are changing principals every time we turn around."

"We have had five principals in school (HNC) since I've been on this board," Cuevas allowed.

After challenging Education Superintendent Terrell Randolph on the lack of personnel evaluations the motion to withhold coaching staff recommendations until the conducting of interviews at another meeting scheduled for this week, was passed on a three to two vote. For the hold over were Oris Ladner, Woodrow Ladner and Louie Ladner. Against, on the basis of the principal recommendations and superintendent's approval, were Cuevas and Johnny Banks.

Other teachers were also scheduled to be called to a session with the board this week from HN Central. A complete list of accepted and withheld, teacher recommendations follows:

Hill, Gonzales leave municipal council race

City Clerk Lucien Kidd of Bay St. Louis this week informed the news media that two candidates have withdrawn from the forthcoming municipal elections.

The two, J.L. Gonzales and John Hill, Democrat and Independent respectively, have withdrawn from the race due to their being federal employees.

Under the terms of the Hatch Act, federal personnel are prohibited from participation in partisan politics, a fact that originally caused Hill to enter as an Independent candidate. Subsequent investigation however has determined his ineligibility under any category. Hill is manager of NASA's Michoud Assembly Plant in New Orleans East. Gonzales is a part-time rural mail carrier working out of the Waveland postoffice.

In the municipal election, Hill was seeking the post of councilman from District 1, while Gonzales was seeking a seat on council from District 4.

Their withdrawal leaves four candidates still qualified and running in each of the two districts. Each of the districts also has three Democrats and one Republican in the race.

Education

Mississippi's system of public education accounts for some 60 percent of the state's general fund budget each year. During the recently completed legislative session, appropriations to elementary, secondary, and higher education amounted to more than $465 million.

But, a critical question is being asked: "How effective is our system of public education?"

That is a question the Mississippi Economic Council will try to answer in the next several months. Realizing the importance of a good system of public schools, MEC will review the quality and effectiveness of elementary and secondary education along with the vocational-technical training program. Statistics show —

Between 17,000 and 20,000 students are dropping out of the state's public schools each year.

The quality of education varies greatly among differing forms of school districts.

In many areas there is only minimal local financial support for the schools.

Too many students are being trained for vocational-technical fields in which there is no demand for new workers.

These and other problems should be studied by the Council's Education Committee. They raise questions which should be answered so that Mississippians can understand their system of public education and know what areas need improvement.

Erosion

Estimating erosion from row crop land is just part of the job of Soil Conservation Service technicians, according to Charles Curtis, Soil Conservationist serving the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District. The real task is assisting farmers with conservation practices that will bring the soil erosion down to limits where the soil will remain fertile for years to come.

Many row crop fields in Hancock County are still losing too much soil to maintain a constant level of fertility," says Curtis. Most farmland can withstand a loss of about four tons per acre per year. Many farms are actually losing 10 to 40 tons of soil per acre every year. If this condition continues, nothing will be left but the subsoil, and this land usually has to be converted to pasture or trees. Even then it's not very productive according to Curtis.

The Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District is making an all out effort to get landowners to request assistance in estimating the soil erosion on their row crop land. In most cases, conservation practices can be applied to reduce these losses to a point where the land remains productive and farmers still make a profit. "In the long run, conservation pays," says W.J. Pippin, Chairman of the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District. "Bringing soil erosion down on row crop land in Hancock County will not only benefit the farmer, but will benefit everyone who depends on farm crops, and I believe that takes in everyone."

MEC Council

Two special study committees created during the 1977 Mississippi legislative session "hold a great deal of promise for next year," according to the President of the Mississippi Economic Council.

MEC President Dewey H. Lane said the two committees — one to study the state's tax structure and highway department and another to examine possibilities for government reorganization — could "Propose very meaningful legislation during the 1978 session."

"Perhaps the taxation study group can help resolve the problems caused by the state's inequitable tax structure, particularly in the area of the property tax," said Dr. Lane, a Pascagoula surgeon. "Once the committee has an opportunity to review the situation, we believe that they will see this as one area which should receive prompt attention next session."

Lane said studying the highway department "could produce great benefits for the state's taxpayers."

"Just as there are problems with inequities in taxation, there are also inequities in the distribution of the motor fuel tax revenues. The municipalities of the state receive only a small portion of the overall revenues when, in fact, those towns and cities are among the areas which have the greatest need for funds," said Lane.

"We also hope that the members of the taxation-highway study group will look seriously at the possibility of replacing the present elected Highway Commission with an appointed commission," he said.

The Pascagoula physician said the Council "was disappointed by the failure of the legislators to approve a single governmental reorganization bill this session." But, he added, the study committee could help change that next year.

"There are many routes to achieving government reorganization. We hope this committee will find the best route to the most beneficial way of accomplishing this goal."

School cafeteria workers define duties, problems

MILDRED SWITZER, R.D.
CAFETERIA SUPERVISOR

The second in a series of joint meetings of the cafeteria personnel of the Bay St. Louis School District, the Hancock County School District, and the Pass Christian Municipal School District was held Wednesday, April 13, at North Street Elementary School, Pass Christian.

Assistant Superintendent, George Watson, Pass Christian Municipal School District, opened the meeting with an expression of appreciation for the services rendered by cafeteria employees. He compared school lunch program personnel to the ball bearings in a wheel. The ride to better education would not be as smooth without the presence and efficient operation of this department. It has been well documented that well-nourished children are better equipped and more interested in learning.

Prior to the meeting questions of interest dealing with the workers job were taken from employees themselves, with cafeteria supervisors, Virginia Pavolini, Pass Christian Municipal School District, Lillian Blaize, Bay St. Louis School District, and Mildred Switzer, Hancock County School District, acting as moderators. Questions meeting with interest and enthusiastic discussion dealt with the specific duties and responsibilities of the Cafeteria Supervisor, the School Lunch Manager, and Worker; communications between management and the worker; and the federal requirements of the school lunch program concerning the amounts and types of food specified to be served on a Type A lunch.

The door prize, a lovely plant, was won by Mrs. Audrey Godine, Pass Christian Municipal School District.

The final meeting in the series will be held Monday, May 2nd, at Hancock North Central High School, Hancock County School District.

Governor Cliff Finch REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

JACKSON — Government is often guilty of emphasizing and trying to correct the problems of big cities while ignoring the problems of the rural areas. In Mississippi, we are attempting to avoid that pitfall through a three-point program that we feel will benefit every non-metropolitan area of our state.

The programs can be divided into three basic parts: (1) encouragement of small farming and efforts to establish processing plants in our state; (2) what we call our "small road" program; and (3) encouraging Mississippi's tourists to visit their own state attractions first.

I would like to briefly outline each of the three programs. Mississippi has thousands of small farm acres that have been left idle by the "soil bank". With the proper encouragement and profit incentive, these acres can be put to use by small farm owners in the production of food crops such as potatoes, peas, tomatoes, okra, pepper, and beans. Not only would rural families have more incentive to grow food for their own consumption, but part-time farming can be a very profitable second income for families who hold jobs in industry or business.

In order to make part-time farming attractive, we must make it more profitable. By shipping most of our food products out of Mississippi for processing, we greatly reduce the profit margin for the farmer. Our goal must be to locate processing plants in our state to correct this problem.

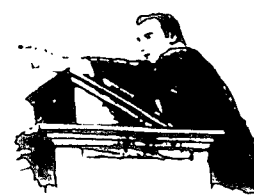

The A&I Board is already at work contacting potential processing plants and making them aware of the opportunities in Mississippi, and we hope to have some significant results from this new interest in rural area of our state.

The "small road" program which I have advocated for two years and just signed into law following approval by the Legislature, will pave many of the gravel roads in rural areas of our state. This program will not only benefit "farm to market" transportation, but will open up new rural tourist attractions. In our beautiful countryside, we have numerous attractions such as water mills, Indian mounds and antebellum homes that Mississippians seldom see because the people don't want to travel on gravel roads. The new program will help correct that problem.

Third, our Tourism Department has just begun a program to encourage Mississippians to visit attractions in their own state first. Mississippi has much to offer in this respect, but we need to make our own people more aware of the tourist attractions in Mississippi. Since many of these unknown attractions are located in rural areas, this new program could have significant results in boosting the economy of rural Mississippi through tourism, especially after those gravel roads are paved.

I ask your support in helping us help the rural areas of our state.

THE OLE PASTOR SAYS... A DEVOTIONAL COMMENTARY

MEN WANTED! Does such a statement in any way excite or challenge some deeper, and better quality within you? The business community is constantly searching for men who will fill certain places in the professions and labor force which requires a desire to serve, a willingness to be faithful, and a readiness to learn.

Christ was calling for such men who would accept the challenge to follow Him as "Ambassadors for Christ" in filling a most important place in human lives — their spiritual, moral and material needs for time and eternity. "Follow me," said the Master, "and I will make you fishers of men." This was our Saviour's way of saying: "Men wanted!"

The five most wanted men I can think of in our day are: (1) The man who is ready to put God's business above his or any other business. When only 12 years of age, Jesus said: "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" The man who will promptly and properly attend to God's business, can be sure that God will attend to his. Let me leave you an interesting proof text: Read Joshua 1:1-9. Here God laid down some simple conditions, that when complied with, "thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success." (2) The man who brings his family to the services of the church rather than sending them; (3) The man who is willing to be the right example to his family, his neighbor, and to every boy or girl he meets. An ounce of example is worth a ton of advice. If you want others to see what Christ can do for them, let them see what He has done for you; (4) The man who is more concerned about winning the approbation of God, and winning others to Christ than in winning a golf tournament, a bowling trophy, and enduro motorcycle contest, or some worldly acclaim; (5) The man who measures his giving by what he has left rather than the amount given. The measure of your sacrifice in giving is the proper standard of your measure of love. You can give without loving. But you cannot love without giving. God does not look at the face of your check, but at the balance on the stub. The acid test of a person's spiritual depth and gratitude for his salvation is to be found in the measure he will sacrifice to bring that message to others. It is not the amount you give, but the amount you keep which is the true measure of your love. These are the kind of men God Wants! Are you one of them? —L.S. Walker

WAKE UP

It should be obvious that there are only two ways to make any real money in Mississippi, go into business for yourself or take a commission sales position. I am talking about a full time professional sales career with the oldest and largest organization of its kind in existence. I am talking about an opportunity to build a consistently growing income which is based on that ability of yours that you have been dying to use.

Benefits include pension plan, free life insurance plan, major health insurance and personal as well as professional growth. This could be that "OPPORTUNITY TO BREAK INTO SALES WHICH YOU HAVE OFTEN THOUGHT ABOUT."

We furnish a complete training program, sales experience not necessary; some of our most successful people have no background in sales. Phone Mr. Ray (601) 896-8499 or Mr. Gore (205) 342-0496

JAZZ REUNION AT OLE MISS

Students who played in Ole Miss jazz bands since 1928 will attend a unique reunion on Saturday, April 30, one of the first such gatherings in the nation. According to Dr. John McCauley, current director of Jazz Bands, Ole Miss was a pace setter among universities sponsoring a jazz-dance orchestra when The Mississippians was organized in 1928. Former players will gather at the Admiral Benbow Inn in Oxford for jam sessions and a concert by the 1977 jazz bands.

Rocks drop close heartbreaker

By LARRY NASH
BAY ST. LOUIS-The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws played host to the Warriors of D'Iberville here on Thursday afternoon and lost by a score of 9-7.

The Rocks took an early 5-0 lead in the first inning as Andy Haas hit a single with two men on that went through the leftfielders legs for a homerun. Todd Edwards and Mark McCarthy who both walked scored in front of him. Mike Odenwald and Greg Hammer both scored in the first. McCarthy doubled to right to lead off the second inning for the Rocks and Odenwald knocked him in. Perry Elchos then hit a Texas Leaguer over the firstbaseman to score Odenwald.

The score at the end of two innings were the Rocks 7 and the Warriors 3.

The third inning belonged entirely to the Warriors as they jumped on Kerry Geroux for five runs to go ahead by one.

In the fourth frame Kerry

Corr came in to relieve Geroux at the mound for the Rocks and gave up two hits for two and one third innings.

In the seventh and final frame the Rocks roared back with a chance to win as Mike Odenwald hit a sure double to right centerfield only to trip over the bag at first and settle for a single. Elchos and Hammer grounded out and struck out respectively. Keel came up with a basehit to move Odenwald to second. Coach Weems then brought in Kelly Geroux to pinchhit who immediately hit a line drive basehit to load the bases for Todd Edwards and the chance for a sure tie with a hit and possibly a win. Coach Weems then called him over to give him a few words of encouragement. The first pitch came and he hit a grounder right to the shortstop who flipped to second to end the game.

Rock catcher Scooter Cart reaches down to make tag on Fritz but the Warriors leftfielder slid under the tag for a score in Thursday's game.

Burger King opens doors

Chart House Inc., a major foodservice company, said today its newest Burger King restaurant has opened in the Bay St. Louis Shopping Center here. Chart House operates or sublicenses over 300 Burger Kings and is Burger King Corporation's largest franchisee.

The new restaurant in Bay St. Louis will be managed by Buford Cutrer, who served previously as assistant manager of a Burger King in Gulfport and is now planning to make their residence in Bay St. Louis.

The restaurant will provide jobs for approximately 30 people. While average sales for a Chart House Burger King are $500,000 annually, some of the company's units reach a million dollars a year.

Dennis B. Mullen, President of Chart House, said "We are intent on being a good neighbor to the people of Bay St. Louis."

"We hope to become actively involved in the affairs of the community and to play a role in the growth and progress of this area," Mullen said.
